DICKINSON'S FUNERAL.

Largest Gathering Ever Seen
at a Funeral in Todd County.

The funeral of Marshal John C.
Dickinson, of Trenton, was held Tuesday and was marked by the largest attendance ever known in the town where he lived.

The death of Dickinson has caused feeling to run high against the negro, Godfrey Ray, who murdered
him. The places of the worn-out searchers, who have been on his trail since the shooting occurred, were taken by others from this place, Trenton and Elkton. A reward of $200 for Ray, dead or alive,
was raised by Trenton citizens and Gov. Beckham was asked to increase this amount to $500 by Merrill Russell, of Elkton, Representative of Todd county in the Legislature.
Ray is still a fugitive and is believed to be in hiding in the woods along
Red river in Montgomery county, Tenn.

A negro arrested at Sebree Tuesday proved to be the wrong one and was turned loose.

TWO SUITS BROUGHT

Against the City On Account of High Water Last Week.

J. E. Mabry, proprietor of a livery stable on the river bank, fronting on Elm street, has sued the city of Hopkinsville for $1,000 damages because water ran into his stable during the heavy rain last week, which was so heavy that some business houses on Main street had water to run into them. He claims that the grading of Elm street was made so high that it causes water to run through the stable. The stable is on very low ground, with no sidewalk in front
high enough to keep out the water.
M. E. Nolen, who had some salt stored in the stable, has also brought suit for $61.75, for 47 barrels of salt
alleged to have been ruined.

SHOT IN FOOT.

Painful Flesh Wound Made
By Rifle Ball.

A little son of Mr. S. M. McKee, of Bolivar, was accidentally shot
while out hunting with some companions. The ball from a 22-caliber rifle passed through the outside of his foot, making a very painful flesh wound. He is able to get around, however, and no serious consequences are anticipated.

BARN BURNED

And Tobacco Crop Consumed
by Flames.

A barn filled with tobacco, belonging to W. M. Wadlington, near Cal-cedonia, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The weed was being "dried," and it is supposed a stick of tobacco fell in the fire, thus igniting that above. The loss is heavy and there was no insurance.

GREAT STREET PARADE.

Mr. Watterson Presided at the Big Armory Meeting Last Night.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 12.—William Jennings Bryan arrived in Louisville today, at a little before noon, at the Seventh street depot.
A parade was formed and followed him to the Galt House, where a reception followed, during which Mr.
Bryan shook hands with vast number of citizens, who entered on Main street and passed out on First.

During the afternoon Mr. Bryan visited the various parks in an automobile. At 6 o'clock he was a guest of the Executive Committee, at dinner, at Seelbach's.

The speaking at the Armory began at 8 o'clock.
Mr. Watterson presided and made the opening speech. Senator E. W.
Carmack, of Tennessee, followed and Senator W. J. Stone, of Missouri, introduced Mr. Bryan.

PROFANE SWEARERS

Get Pulled Quite Often For Their Foul Oaths.

Profane language is objectionable to everyone, even to some of the biggest "cussers" themselves. But some of them do not seem to know that there is a fine for swearing in public. Yet they are beginning to find it out at the cost of their pocketbooks. During the month of August there were eight or ten of them arrested and fined for this offense against the law and dignity of the commonwealth. Already the names of persons addicted to this foul and useless habit, are beginning to show up on the "slate" at the police station. Shed Wallace, a negro, got his name on the docket of the city court last Monday morning.
Officer Merritt, who took him in hand, says that the negro, "cussed out all of East Ninth street" for some imaginary cause. Judge Brashear assessed a fine against him, which, with the trimmings in the way of costs, amounted to $6. Shed did not have a very plethoric purse that day and was only saved from doing work for the city by the kindness of a white friend standing for him. The police are going to do everything possible to put an end to the indiscriminate use of oaths so offensive to ears polite, and people generally wish them success in their crusade against cussin' on the streets.

The Tell-Tale Locket.

BY GRANVILLE OSBORNE.

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

When the troop transport reached Manila, Private Dillingham went ashore on a stretcher.
Dorothy had decreed that he should go to the hospital instead of to the camp across the bay
with the rest of the regiment.
Otherwise Dillingham would not have met Dr. Horton, and had he not met Dr. Horton, life would never have been the same for at least two people in the world.

When Dr. Horton looked into the face of Dillingham, he started noticeably. The stretcher bearers and the others who were standing about exchanged glances of astonishment as the announcement of the regular army,
not that of civilian social circles,
which is a very different thing.

Horton had never been known to start before. He was supposed to be as devoid of sentiment and emotion as the granite boulders of his native state.
His countenance took on a pallor;
lines appeared at either side of his mouth.

"Dillingham?" he ejaculated in a hoarse whisper.

"Present," said Dillingham,
feebly. He smiled a ghastly smile and plucked nervously at the blanket covering the lower portion of his body.

"What—how—I don't understand—" The surgeon groped
for a sentence.

"Don't you? Well, no more do I. It's something we've got to figure out, doc. If you'll be kind enough to lay me up somewhere and give me something to make me feel better, I'll talk with you."

The surgeon drew himself up quickly. "I beg your pardon, Dillingham," he said in a dry voice. "I had quite forgotten."

"It's all right, doc," said Dil-lingham. "I wouldn't have mentioned it, only I feel as if I was going to unravel like an old stocking, and I'm afraid it isn't a good sign."

"Isn't," affirmed the surgeon.

Dillingham was dragged that night and the next day, until the fever in his veins grew weak and dispirited. Then he opened his eyes, to see Dr. Horton sitting by his side, plying a palm leaf fan.

"I had nothing special to do,"
the surgeon said, in explanation of his presence. "I thought I'd drop in and talk a bit. I had you brought to my room. It's quieter here. Your fever is about gone. You'll be up in a day or two."

"Glad to hear it, doc," said Dil-lingham. "I'm ever so much obliged."

The two men looked into each other's faces long and searching-ly. The ticking of the watch in the surgeon's pocket was distinctly audible.

"It's the same old watch, isn't it, doc? I haven't heard it since the day you examined my heart,
but I'd know its voice among a thousand."

"Yes," said the surgeon, "it's the same old watch."

"Doc, how does it happen that you're out here? I thought you were—at home."

"I—I don't believe I know," replied the surgeon. "It was clear enough to me until you came, but now I seem to be in a muddle.
What are you doing out here
yourself?"

"Oh, I'm out here to forget."

"To forget what?"

"My foolishness. I was doing my country no good at home.
There was nothing to hold me
there."

"Nothing to hold you there?"
the surgeon repeated, like one in a daze. "Didn't you marry—
her?"

"No, I didn't." Dillingham
squeaked as if in sudden pain.
"I saw through your little game,
doc, and—I'm not that sort of a fellow. She wouldn't have married me, anyway."

"The—deuce she wouldn't!"
"No, your efforts, doc, in my
—in her behalf were well meant,
perhaps, but they were in poor judgment and wasted."

"My efforts?—I—"

"Let me tell you, doc. You really loved her, while I merely thought I did. Her folks liked you. They didn't like me. I don't blame them. I was good enough,

perhaps, but I was a poor stick
for a girl to marry; no property for prospects. There was a time,
I believe, when the girl thought
she loved me, but it wasn't love,
it was human nature asserting itself against parental opposition. I used to meet the girl in the grape arbor, when I was for-bidden to enter the house.
There was a spice of romance in
it. It was there that night—that night when you asked her to marry
you. I heard her refuse you. I heard her tell you that she loved another, and that other was myself."

"Yes?" The surgeon was grasping the sides of the camp stool,
and his upper lip was drawn tightly over his teeth.

"Later, doc—it was the next

"DOO, HOW DOES IT HAPPEN THAT YOU'RE OUT HERE?"

week, I think—the girl went away. She had not looked perfectly well for a long time, and as, the family physician, and ordered a change of air. You recommended a certain sanitarium
up in the hills, and her father bundled her up there in short order, but not before we had met in the grape arbor and decided that you were a scheming scoundrel. We felt very bitter towards you, doc. Then, one day you stopped me on the street and layed to me. You said I was looking badly; that I should go somewhere to recuperate. It was beautiful sarcasm, doc, but I was too much of a fool to see it. I told you I couldn't afford to go away. You loaned me the money.
I went where you suggested and —we were together again, she and I, with no restrictions to our love-making. It was clever of you. But, old man, as I said before, your judgment was bad.

We were talking one day of the coincidence that had brought us together, and comparing health news, and we discovered that neither of us was sick. In an instant we saw through it all—we understood. Nothing further was said, and the next day came the news of your departure with the troops."

"And then?"

"Well, we just naturally packed our trunks. The scales had fallen from our eyes. She was nothing but a friend to me, my mother and I was nothing but a friend to her. You should have seen her when she read the announcement of your departure, doc! It would have told you something sweet."

Horton blinked like a man who opens his eyes in a strong light.
"I was disgusted with myself and with her," Dillingham went on. "I knew then what my real sentiments towards her were,
and the revelation under the circumstances was not conducive to self-complacency. The way to my room led past the door of hers, and the door was ajar. I am a sneak by nature. There was a little red plush box in the tray—
the box in which she kept her treasures. I tiptoed in like a thief."

"You—you—"

"Don't get excited, doc. Yes, it was a mean thing to do. I opened the box, took a tiny look at it from it for a keepsake, and that was all. I took the locket because it was the first thing my fingers touched, and then I flew.
I have never seen her since. I enlisted, and—here I am."

Horton nodded his head vaguely.

"I want you to see the locket
I stole. It is in a pocketbook full of my trunks. Just get it, will
you?"

The surgeon got the pocketbook. Dillingham closed his eyes.

"Is this it?" asked Horton,
holding up the bauble.

Dillingham's eyelids barely fluttered.

"Yes," he said. "Open it."

The surgeon opened it. "Why,
this—it's a picture of her, isn't it?"

"What—the—?" Dillingham sat
bolt upright for an instant, and
then sank back again, pulling at
the opening of his shirt. "Yes—
no—that isn't the one; here it is
—confound it—here!"

He flung another locket at the
surgeon—a locket which until then had been suspended about
his neck.

"Give me the—the other," he said, almost fiercely. "I must have gone off my head when the
fever came on me about the ship
and got them mixed. Here—this
one has your picture in it, doc;
it's the one I took from—the—
red-box!"

He lay upon his pillow, pant-
ing and exhausted. The surgeon
gently pushed the wet hair back
from his forehead. A long silence. Then:

"Doc—"

"Yes?"

"You will be going—home—
soon?"

"Yes, Dillingham, very soon
now."

"That's right, doc. You'll find
her waiting for you."

The surgeon raised Dilling-
ham's hand from the covert and
grasped it warmly in his own.

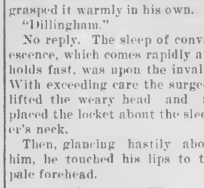

"Dillingham."

No reply. The sleep of convalescence, which comes rapidly and
holds fast, was upon the invalid.

With exceeding care the surgeon
lifted the weary head and replaced the locket about the sleep-
er's neck.

Then, glancing hastily about
him, he touched his lips to the
pale forehead.

HAPPY WOMEN.

Plenty of Them in Hopkinsville, and Good Reason for It.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
She finds relief and cure?

No reason why any Hopkinsville reader

Should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. John Coombs, of 1236 Virginia street, says: "For a great many years I suffered with a persistent aching across my loins and through my kidneys. At times my back was so bad that I could hardly turn in bed and I could hardly lay on my back at all without placing my hand under it, which seemed in a measure to relieve the pain. A friend of Mr. Coombs told him about Doan's Kidney Pills and then he got a box for me at L. A. Johnson & Co's drug store. On using them I steadily improved until the dreadful aching was relieved and I could attend to my household duties without any inconvenience. They did more for me than any medicine
I ever used and I gladly recommend them."

"What—the—?" Dillingham sat
bolt upright for an instant, and
then sank back again, pulling at
the opening of his shirt. "Yes—
no—that isn't the one; here it is
—confound it—here!"

He flung another locket at the
surgeon—a locket which until
then had been suspended about
his neck.

"Give me the—the other," he
said, almost fiercely. "I must
have gone off my head when the
fever came on me about the ship
and got them mixed. Here—this
one has your picture in it, doc;
it's the one I took from—the—
red-box!"

He lay upon his pillow, pant-
ing and exhausted. The surgeon
gently pushed the wet hair back
from his forehead. A long silence. Then:

"Doc—"

"Yes?"

"You will be going—home—
soon?"

"Yes, Dillingham, very soon
now."

"That's right, doc. You'll find
her waiting for you."

The surgeon raised Dilling-
ham's hand from the covert and
grasped it warmly in his own.

"Dillingham."

No reply. The sleep of convalescence, which comes rapidly and
holds fast, was upon the invalid.

With exceeding care the surgeon
lifted the weary head and replaced the locket about the sleep-
er's neck.

Then, glancing hastily about
him, he touched his lips to the
pale forehead.

Past, Present and Future Paint

The best "past" paint is the paint which has worn down
evenly, leaving the surface ready for repainting without the need of expensive scraping
and "burning-off."

The best "present" paint is the paint which is applied with least labor, covers the most surface per gallon, and looks the best when on.

The best "future" paint is the paint which lasts without cracking or peeling, affording perfect protection for the greatest number of years.

The Third District editors met last week at Bowling Green and organized a district association. C. C. Pare, of Franklin, was elected President and W. J. Denhart, of Bowling Green, Secy. Another meeting will be held Sept. 24, to adopt a constitution.

The Maine Democrats did not carry the state but they cut the Republican majority down from 25,000 to 8,000. Gov. Cobb was re-elected by that majority and Congressman Littlefield, in whose district the fight was hottest, had his majority cut down from 4,800 to less than 1,000.

Jesse Fitzgerald, the negro who was convicted last month of the murder of Mrs. Robert Broughton, and whose protection from mob violence three companies of State Guards were sent to Barboursville, will not hang September 21, according to the sentence. His lawyers are now taking an appeal and before the expiration of the limit his case will go before the court of appeals. And thus does the law's delay step in to add to the feeling of complacency with which lynch law is regarded by those who believe in the Bible doctrine of "An eye for an eye."

"Nast's Historical Paintings" furnishes the title for one of the interesting articles of the month, which appears in the National Magazine for September. Leigh Leslie reveals, for perhaps the first time, the craving ambition of Thomas Nast to be known to future generations, not only as a pictorial satirist, but as a historical painter as well. The latter ambition was not fully realized, although Nast produced a number of splendid historical paintings, among them being "Peace Again," "The Departure of the Seventh Regiment of New York," "Appomattox," "Lincoln Entering Richmond." The historical significance of these and other paintings is outlined by Mr. Leslie's article, and handsome half-toned illustrations are the means of reproducing the pictures.

RESOLUTIONS

Of Respect On the Death of Mrs. Boyd Organ.

Whereas God in His all-wise providence, has seen best to take from our midst sister Maggie Organ, be it resolved, 1st. That the church and community have, in her death, sustained the loss of a true christian woman.

2nd. That the church extend heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved husband and relatives.

3rd. That the church remember in its prayers the little motherless girls, and keep watch-care over them and try to lead them to their mother's God.

Sister Organ was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lloyd. She was born Jan. 8th, 1876, and passed away peacefully and triumphantly August 21st, 1906.

A few years ago she consecrated her life to her Maker, and has since led a devoted christian life. She was cheerful and patient, kindhearted and thoughtful, and now she has gone to her Reward. "Blessed are they who die in the Lord."

The Renewal a Strain.

Vacation is over. Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to the extent of the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had rosy cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries," have already lost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic, which may avert much serious trouble, and we know of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion and assimilation, and aids mental development by building up the whole system.

EVERYONE GETS A SEAT

Opera Chairs Also Furnished Patrons of the Barnum & Bailey Circuses.

One of the announcements of the Barnum & Bailey circus that attracts particular attention is the statement that a seat and a foot-rest are furnished every purchaser of a ticket for the big show. What this means need not be explained to anyone who recalls the discomfort and crowding attendant upon a visit to the ordinary circus.

"One important feature of the Barnum & Bailey seating plan," said an agent of the big show, "is the fact that every ticket issued, whether reserved or not, has a coupon. Where a seat is not reserved in advance, the admission coupon does not call for a specific seat, but entitles the holder to a certain section. Each of these sections has accommodations for a certain number of visitors, and as only sufficient tickets to fill them are sold, there is never any possibility of overcrowding. In the seats ordinarily furnished by circuses to those purchasing admission tickets only, visitors are compelled to dangle their legs uncomfortably in the air, or to excite the resentment of others by resting their feet on the seats in front. At the same time the man who is thus taking advantage of his neighbor to rest his feet, has the annoyance of suffering the same infliction from those behind. By the new foot-rest scheme inaugurated by Barnum & Bailey all this discomfort and cause of ill feeling is obviated. Every seat has an extra board upon which to rest the feet. This means the carrying of just double the number of planks, but the show has its reward in the increased comfort and consequent satisfaction of the public."

"This reform in the arrangements of the show also extends to the higher priced seats. Formerly, the reserved seats were nothing more than the ordinary blue boards covered with a piece of carpet. Then came the crude slap-down seat, which is still retained by the shows. The Barnum & Bailey show has some of the slap-down seats, but they are of an improved pattern and are sold at an intermediate price. The best reserved numbered seats are modern, up-to-date, comfortable opera chairs, placed upon a platform so solidly and substantially constructed that a child could play hide-and-seek on it without danger or injury. The Barnum & Bailey circus is the only traveling show in the world that furnishes seats of this character, and while it means the employment of many more men to handle them and the utilization of several extra railway cars to carry the paraphernalia the cost has been more than justified."

There is little doubt that those who witness the performance of the Barnum & Bailey circus when the big show exhibits in Hopkinsville, Sept. 26, will have their enjoyment enhanced by the management's careful preparation for their comfort and safety. The show, it is announced, will present all the new features here, just as soon in New York during the opening engagement of the season. These include the "Dip of Death," the aerial automobile sensation, the "Two Twists of Terror," in which mid-air somersaults are turned by daring wheelmen; the new "Peace" spectacle, and a long list of riding, acrobatic, aerial and trained animal novelties.

OPENING OF S. K. G.

Every Room Occupied And Applicants May Be Turned Away.

130 PUPILS ENROLLED.

More Room Needed and Girls Dormitory May Be Enlarged.

It looks like old times up on "College hill" now. The building was turned over to the officers of the school Monday and pupils began arriving on every train. All is life and animation up there now. The campus for the young ladies presented a scene of bustle and activity Tuesday that was really inspiring. Bright and happy faces were visible everywhere. Many of the young ladies had come back to resume their studies, while many new faces were to be seen.

Of course everything cannot be done in one day and the assignment of rooms and pairing off by the young ladies, unpacking of trunks and numerous other arrangements had to be made, which consumed a good deal of time. Consultations of teachers and principals are still frequent, but regular routine work on their part and concentration of thought on the different studies has hardly yet been accomplished, but by the end of the week everything will be in smooth running order and the months of the first term of the institution will have begun in earnest.

About the only people who wear a troubled expression are the principals of the school and the trustees. They haven't room enough yet for all the young ladies who want to come here to complete their educations. Every room in the boarding department is full and Messrs. Kuykendall and Smith have had to notify ladies who did not come opening day that they could not be accommodated. This should not be. The trustees were in consultation yesterday morning considering an enlargement of the girls' dormitory. Prof. Kuykendall said that he did not think it could be done in time, but that he and others were trying to arrange in some way for the admission of a few more ladies.

McCarty Hall is full of young men also, and an enlargement of the building will doubtless be necessary during the coming year. The regular tramp, tramp of the young men and the pit-a-pat of the feet of a long line of college girls will soon be heard the streets again and the big fire which caused a general stampede a few months since will be forgotten, new associations will be formed and the life of the school girl and school boy will be as of yore.

The term just begun will be one of the most prosperous in the history of the institution. One hundred and thirty young men and ladies have matriculated already, to say nothing of a number of young people of the city who may enter the school during the coming week.

South Kentucky's future has begun and it is evident that it will outstrip the past in its care and education of the young of the present generation. All praise to the indomitable Kuykendall and Smith, the untiring board of trustees and all who have in any way, financially or otherwise, been instrumental in the rebuilding and enlargement of this institution of learning. May your efforts and patience never again be taxed in the same direction.

It has for sometime been the intention of the management of the institution to throw the doors of the new buildings open to the public that it might see what an almost marvel of beauty, cleanliness, convenience and perfect adaptation has been constructed for the young who come here for an education. This public reception, for many reasons, has been deferred for a time, but Prof. Kuykendall said yesterday that in the near future our people would surely have the opportunity of inspecting the buildings and everything connected with the grand edifice which has been evolved from standing bare walls, piles of debris and ruin generally, as well as the modern dormitory, for housing the lady pupils.

The Old Reliable Jewelry House

of Hopkinsville is, after all, the best place to get anything in the jewelry line. There's a record behind us, a record of over thirty years; a clean record of satisfied customers, a record of honest dealing, for honest quality, honest prices. It's a record any jeweler might feel proud of. And when we sell an article we have in mind that we have a record to maintain, and no slipshod methods, no careless workmanship, no lack of quality, is ever allowed to mar the record of the past. But to improve, if possible, this record, is ever our aim, and goods are sold for as low a price as it is possible to sell reliable goods.

It will pay you in the end to deal with the Old Reliable Jeweler.

THREE LUNACY CASES.

One White Woman and Two Colored Adjudged Insane.

Judge James Breathitt being absent from the city, Squire John Morris had a jury summoned yesterday to examine into the mental condition of Mrs. Daisy Alexander. Mrs. Alexander was brought in by her husband and one or two others, and as Mr. Alexander lives some distance in the country Squire Morris was notified and tried the woman as an emergency case. She was not at all demonstrative but the evidence showed clearly that Mrs. Alexander is of unsound mind and she was sent to the asylum.

Ella Boyd, a negro cook, was arrested by the police Tuesday on a charge of lunacy and turned over to the county authorities. Judge Breathitt being out of the city, County Attorney John C. Duffy had her placed in jail for safe keeping. She is said to be very violent.

As there was no time fixed for Judge Breathitt's return to the city, County Attorney Duffy, after Mrs. Alexander's case had been disposed of, prevailed upon Squire Morris to have Ellen Boyd's mental condition inquired into "while his hand was in." After the woman had been tried and adjudged insane and ordered to the asylum, the jury remained in their seats, took the required oath and the third lunacy case was begun. Ida Kirkman, colored, aged about 60, is the wife of Ben Kirkman. As was stated in the evidence, she has been mentally unbalanced for a year or more. The jury was convinced of this and she was ordered to the asylum.

SUES FOR $10,000.

Above Amount Asked of the Empire Coal Co.

Willis Boyd, as administrator of Charles Glass, col., who was killed in the Empire mines some months ago, has filed suit here against the coal company for $10,000 damages. Plaintiff alleges that the fatal accident was due to the negligence of the officials in not properly supporting the roof of the mines or in not giving warning of its unsafe condition.

CONVENIENCES

Rigged Up by Engineer Sam Fleming.

Sam Fleming, the engineer of the yard engine of the L. & N., is a genius. It will be remembered that years ago he put up an automatic arrangement for ringing the fire bell. It was used until the County Court tore away the tower of the courthouse to put up a new one.

Stopping aboard his engine the other day he treated a representative of this paper to a good draught of ice water. The water comes through pipes Sam has connected with his engine, and being condensed is as pure as water can be. He keeps a large tank of it all the time and says since he began using it he has not been bothered the least with indigestion and is gaining his flesh. Sam believes in comfort while in his cab, and getting possession of an electric fan, he substituted steam as a motive power. When he gets too warm he presses a button and is fanned until his temperature runs down and he is as comfortable as "a bug in a rug." He says he is the first engineer to put in these appliances. About the next thing he will do will be to rig up a coffee mill and boiler and treat his friends to the best and purest article when they call on him, or something else that no one would think of but Sam.

EVANGELIST HAM

Raises Debt on Springfield, Tenn., Tabernacle.

Springfield, Tenn., Sept. 11.—The meeting which has been in progress here at the tabernacle for the last five weeks closed last night. Rev. Ham conducted the services. Friday night he asked those present for subscriptions to pay off the debt on the tabernacle, which amounted to $1,000 or $1,200. The people responded liberally, and the whole amount has been raised and the debt was paid and enough funds were left over to put the building in good repair.

FIVE BOYS SUSPENDED.

Charged With Hazing Coley Moore, a Freshman.

GIVEN WINDOW TEST.

Says Seniors Held Him Out of a Third Story Window.

Five boys of the High School class of the Hopkinsville Public Schools were suspended Tuesday for one week, charged with hazing Coley Moore, a freshman, about ten days ago. The charge was preferred against three of them, John Lawson, Thomas Earle and Joe Slaughter. Charles Meacham, who had taken part in hazing two other boys—Malcolm Frankel and Everett Mason—at the same time, and George Abbott, who was present, but took no part in hazing any of the three, asked to be included in any sentence imposed on the others and all were accordingly suspended. Superintendent Hamlett reprimanded the boys and closed the gymnasium room in which the hazing occurred, but the Board concluded that the punishment was inadequate and decided to suspend all who were in any way implicated.

The hazing consisted in holding the boys with their heads and shoulders out of a third story window under pretense of throwing them out, as a test of courage. Other forms of hazing inflicted on the freshmen were "padding," blacking their faces and otherwise having fun at their expense. In the case of the three boys caught in the gymnasium room, only the window test was reported to. Frankel and Mason made no complaint and refused to testify against the boys at the inquiry held by Supt. Hamlett. Young Moore left the school building with the hazers as usual and no importance was attached to the affair until the Board's attention was called to it several days later, with the result above stated.

The boys suspended are among the larger youths, leaders in the football team and other forms of athletics.

A member of the board said the boys were let off with a light sentence, but the purpose of the suspensions was to break up hazing in the schools, which was increasing to an extent that caused complaint from some of the patrons.

Lawson is the son of Mr. R. C. Lawson, Earle is a brother-in-law of Judge W. T. Fowler with whom he lives, and a brother of a lady teacher in the schools; Slaughter is a son of Mr. Chas. Slaughter. Meacham is a son of Mayor Chas. M. Meacham. Abbott is a son of Rev. Geo. C. Abbott and Moore is a son of City Tax Collector H. C. Moore.

The news of the Board's action caused much excitement among the pupils and a good deal of feeling was shown yesterday morning when the sentences were made known.

The sympathies of the teachers were clearly with the pupils and some of them shed tears when the boys left the building, each with a written notice of suspension.

The gate leading to the High School grounds was found painted a bright red yesterday morning and on the steps were the words: "He who enters here leaves hope behind." There were other similar signs about the building. The teachers were unable to find out who did the painting.

The boys suspended take their sentences good-naturedly and will return to their studies next Wednesday.

Doctors Are Puzzled.

The remarkable recovery of Kenneth McIver, of Vanceboro, Mo., is the subject of much interest to the medical fraternity and a wide circle of friends. He is a young man, "Owing to severe inflammation of the throat and congestion of the lungs, three doctors gave me up to die, when at last resort, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery and I am happy to say it saved my life." Cures the worst coughs and colds, bronchitis, tonsillitis, weak lungs, hoarseness and grippe. Guaranteed at Hardwick's drug store. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

WOMEN SUFFER NEEDLESS MISERY.

MISS MARY MAYGER.

MRS. LIZZIE SHARPE.

MRS. JAMES GILLOHER.

There are hundreds of thousands of women in America suffering from Pelvic Diseases, endangering their lives by neglecting treatment. If they will write to me I will give them the benefit of my extensive experience in treating this class of ailments.

—S. B. Hartman, M. D.

In view of the great multitude of women suffering from some form of female disease and yet unable to find any cure, Dr. Hartman, the renowned gynecologist, has announced his willingness to direct the treatment of as many cases as may make application to him during the summer months, without charge.

Miss Mary Mayger, 206 Delhi street, Philadelphia, Pa., writes:

"Before taking your medicine I was completely run down.

Headache and Backache.

"My back and head ached all the time and I was so nervous that it was impossible for me to attempt any work.

"After using two bottles of Peruna there was a wonderful change and I am now a well woman.

Gratitude.

"I cannot express my gratitude sufficiently and I am recommending it to all my friends."

Dr. Hartman's treatment will be conducted by correspondence.

The medicines prescribed can be obtained at all drug stores.

Complete Treatment.

The Doctor will prescribe all medicines, applications, hygienic and dietary regulations necessary to effect complete relief.

Furthermore, all correspondence will be held strictly confidential.

Entire System Affected.

Mrs. James Gilloher, Norwood, Ontario, Can., writes:

"I was suffering from systemic catarrh for about two years.

"In damp weather I was unable to do my work, as my back and sides would ache, and I thought if I did not soon find a cure I could not live long.

"I saw where Peruna had cured hundreds who had suffered as I was suffering. I decided to try it.

"After taking the first bottle, I felt a big change.

Completely Cured.

"I have taken five bottles and I am completely cured.

"I thank Dr. Hartman for his kind advice to me."

Dr. Hartman's offer will hold good during the entire summer months.

Any woman can become a regular patient by sending a written statement of her age, condition of life, symptoms of her derangements, and previous treatment.

Dr. Hartman's Advice.

Mrs. Lizzie Sharpe, 233 Friendship street, Providence, R. I., writes:

"Some time ago I wrote you, asking advice in regard to my health, describing my symptoms.

"Following your advice and taking your medicine for only five weeks, I am thankful to say I am a well woman.

"I had suffered for a number of years with constipation, indigestion and female troubles of the worst form. I was unable to do my housework without help.

Satisfactory Results.

"After taking Peruna I have experienced the most satisfactory results. I am like a new woman.

"I do all my own housework for seven rooms, thanks to Peruna.

Recommends Peruna.

"I want to recommend Peruna to all who are similarly afflicted."

The principal remedy which Dr. Hartman relies upon in curing catarrhal diseases of women is Peruna.

Hundreds of women sufferers find Peruna a household remedy. Many of these women have written letters of thanks for the benefit they have obtained.

Dr. Hartman's Experience.

As is well known, Dr. Hartman is the President of the Hartman Sanitarium, a hospital which has a department devoted to the treatment of female diseases.

He is thus brought to see a great many of such cases every year, the most of whom return to their homes to complete their treatment by correspondence.

Those wishing to become patients by correspondence should address Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

FACE DISCOLORED.

Miss Woolldridge Struck By a Base Ball.

Miss Anna Woolldridge is suffering with a badly bruised eye and cheek, as a result of being struck in the face with a base ball. Last Sunday some boys were playing ball near where Miss Woolldridge resides, and the ball, which was either hit by a bat or was thrown, struck her while she was sitting on the porch.

The Kidney and Bladder
Cure
J. B. MALLOU

To-Morrow,
The sunset last night was a blending of light—
"Twas amethyst, golden and blue—
But midnight was jet and the cloudbanks were set
"Gahst walls of Plutonian hue!

The Thunder God howled pompous spheroids that rolled Dews stretches of firmament rent!
The lightning leaped high in the turbulent sky;
The woods, like the willows, were bent!

Our lives, like the sky, go in chaos awry,
Our calms in our tempests are lost—
But morn's beacon comes to uplift from the slums
Our hopes that were shattered and tossed!

For midnight, so dun, cannot shadow the sun
Of morning, the blithesome and bright!
The bonny blue sky with its haze drifting
By dispels all the clouds of the night!

Take heart, everyone, when your journey's begun
In hint that is struggling and wan—
No matter the dark; there'll be sun with the lark!
Trudge onward and watch for the dawn!

By the Way,
August promises to be pretty hot for muck raking.

The man who works merely to see the "ghost walk" soon becomes "a dead one."

Dreyfus probably feels that any vindication, however late, is better than no vindication at all.

The short sleeve habit is certainly good from one standpoint—the omitted part doesn't cost anything.

The older a man gets the more he feels like letting the small boy do all the celebrating on the Fourth of July.

Did you have new potatoes in your garden by the Fourth? When I was a boy, the neighbor who didn't, lost caste.

Time flies, but money gets away by telegraph.

A Kansas paper says "Number 4 struck the man just below the Hinkley line." I can't find it in my physiology.

There is plenty of work in Panama for the June graduates. Uncle Sam has a large contract on his hands down there.

A Denver man stole his landlady's store teeth. "Rips" suggests that he was probably tired of hearing her chew the rag.

"Well," he said, "I'd turn on the gas and suicide, if I could turn it off when dead." I wouldn't want the gas company to get the benefit.

An Iowa editor says: "A baldheaded man ought not to have to pay the same for a hair cut as a man with a full head of hair." I'll bet this editor is baldheaded.

The house in which Tom Platt was born has been sold for $140. The house in which "Uncle By" was born is now being used as a junk shop. How the mighty have fallen!

A Chicago pressman has been arrested for kidnapping his sweetheart. A man whose business is so much in line with Cupid's endeavors should not be compelled to resort to kidnapping.

Every time a young scapegrace gets into trouble, his first appeal is, "Don't tell mother." Some youths should carry a picture of mother around with them to refresh their memory that she still lives and will be broken hearted if they depart from the path of rectitude.

All Fixed for Housekeeping.
A bunch of newspaper boys were sitting about the Press club table. One of them remarked:
"I picked up three stories in the club last evening."

"Now if you can pick up a manservant's story," butted in the president, "you will be all fixed for housekeeping."

Now, how did the president know that the young man already had a bird promised for the cage?

Southwest

The Land of BIG CROPS and PROSPERITY.

Are you making as much off your farm as you ought? No doubt you are making all you CAN. The trouble is the land costs too much. It takes too much money to buy a big farm, and so you are trying to make a living on a small farm, or perhaps you are renting one and paying a good share of what you raise, in rent. Wouldn't it be better to go where the price of good land is so little that you can own a big farm—where every acre of the ground is working for you and all you raise is paying you good profits?

There are thousands of acres of fertile land in the Southwest along the line of the Cotton Belt Route that can be bought for from $3 to $10 an acre. This land is increasing in value each year.

See the Southwest at Small Cost.
A trip to the Southwest would convince you that your best interests lie in settling there. The trip can be made at very little expense. On the first and third Tuesdays of each month you can purchase a round trip ticket, in any point in the Southwest on or via the Cotton Belt Route at very low rates. Stop-overs will be allowed for you to examine any locality you are interested in. Write at once for free copies of books describing this wonderful country and for full information about cost of tickets, etc.

NEW AND MODISH SLEEVES.

Pattern No. 5634.—From season to season the sleeves are the first consideration of the designer, and unquestionably they are the most important part of a costume, as they at once stamp a frock as being up-to-date or otherwise. The elbow sleeve is the most popular for the lingerie blouse and for all dressy frocks, and the short puff sleeve has become a great favorite for evening wear. The blouse sleeves here illustrated are very smart and are suitable for development in all the season's material. The quantity of material 36 inches wide required for the medium size is one and one-quarter yards for sleeve No. 1, seven-eighths yards for No. 2, one and one-eighth yards for sleeve No. 3 and 4, and one yard for No. 5. Sizes corresponding to 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

This pattern will be sent to you on receipt of 10 cents. Address all orders to the Pattern Department of this paper. Be sure to give size and number of pattern wanted. For convenience, write your order on the following coupon:

LADIES' ROUND YOKE BLOUSE.

Pattern No. 5541.—A pretty design for a blouse waist is here shown in a development of white China silk, combined with eyelid embroidery and narrow Valenciennes lace. Deep tucks contribute to the front fullness and the round yoke is finished by a high standing collar and neckband. Crepe de chine, tulle, pongee, albatross, mohair and linen are all adaptable. The medium size will require two and five-eighths yards of 36-inch material. Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

NEW PASTOR SEPTEMBER 30.

After Many Telegrams Dr. Jenkins Is Heard From.

IS NOW IN BALTIMORE.

Will Preach Here On The Fifth Sunday—Has Not Accepted.

Not until yesterday did Mr. Jas. H. Anderson, appointed to notify Dr. Jenkins of his call to the Baptist church, succeed in locating him. He finally found him in Baltimore, to which place a letter and telegram were forwarded. Mr. Anderson wired him:

"Church has called you unanimously. Wire answer. When can you come?"

The reply was worded as follows: "Wire and letter received. Expect me for fifth Sunday."

MILLARD A. JENKINS.
This is not taken to be a final answer to the call. A letter was also received Tuesday, written before the telegram found Dr. Jenkins, in which he said he had calls from Baltimore, Waynesboro, N. C., and one other place, but added: "Somehow I am inclined towards Hopkinsville."

A Scientific Wonder.

The cures that stand to its credit make Bucklen's Arnica Salve a scientific wonder. It cured E. R. Mulford, lecturer for the Patrons Husbandry, Waynesboro, Pa., of a distressing case of piles. It heals the worst burns, sores, boils, ulcers, cuts, wounds, chilblains and salt rheum. Only 25c at Hardwick's drug store.

Union county went "dry" Tuesday by a majority of more than 1,000 votes.

Great Reduction In Prices of Wall Paper

Nobody is absolutely infallible. We all make some mistakes. One of our mistakes of last season was buying too much wall paper.

We want to turn our surplus stock into cash for two reasons, viz: We need the cash and want to make room for the new fall stock. In order to do this,

We will for the next ten days, beginning Monday, July 16, sell everything in the WALL PAPER line at greatly reduced prices. We mean business.
